NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1860.

READY TO-DAY.

An important Work, which, having been several years in progress, it completed at a opportune time. It is the

LIFE OF ANDREW JACKSON,

BY JAMES PARTON,
Author of "Life of Agron Burr," etc.
Three Volumes, 636 to 734 pages each, with Steel Portraits

Three Volumes, 6.36 to 1.5 pages each, wan at the Crown Ocyave Edition—Cloth Blading, $5; Sheep, $5 .35; Haif Caif, $9; Fell Caif, $12.

Subscription Cloth, $7 50; Sheep, $9; Haif Caif, $12; Full Caif, $15.

Mr. Parton has been several years engaged in the preparation of this work, and has been several years engaged in the preparation of this work, and has bestowed upon it the most careful research and investigation. The first volume of the Subscribers' Edition was issued a year since; the second was published last Springs and the third and last is now completed. Of the first and second volumes, the press have spoken in the warmest commendation.

Especially at this time, when the questions of nullification and secossion are again considered, the history of Jackson's Administration is of peculiar interest.

secession are again considered, the history of Jackson's Administration is of peculiar interest.

THE WORK WAS NEEDED.

It is the first history of the great hero. Hitherto the malice of pastian venom, or the prejudice of personal effection, have prevented a cool, studied, and unwarished narrative of the second of his hic and the events of the times in which he bore so prominent a part as a soldier and a stateman.—[Washington States and Union.

ITS COMPLETENESS.

and Union.

ITS COMPLETENESS.

The most persevering research can hardly hope to light on anything more to illustrate the subject.—Hoston Cagnier. Those who have been most familiar with the except of Jakkon will be surprised at the mass of new matter the author has collected.—

[Boston Journal.]
ITS IMPARTIALITY.
It was a favorite precept with Cicero that a historian should not dare to relate a function or conceal a truth, and it is the precept upon which Mr. Parton seems to have noted throughout, so far as he has proceeded in the present work.—[National Quarterly Review. It is equally free from the spirit of detraction on the one hand or of unmixed glorification on the other. Failings and virtues are both faithfully delineated.—[Western Christian Advocate.

one hand or of unmixed glorification on the other. Failings and virtues are both faithfully delineated.—[Western Christian Advocate.

ITS HISTORICAL VALUE.

The author's giving the American public one of the most interesting, as well as valuable works, which have been written upon the history of this country for the first half of the present century and the closing twenty years of the preseding. * * * Neither the student of history nor the general reader can find a more valuable, comprehensive, or antertaining work than the one under notice—none from which he will derive more information or greater pleasure.—[Hanger Whis.

175 INTEREST:

"One of the most readable books. Every page is alive. It is as romantic as a mediaval rounnes, and yet has the advantage of being true."—[Henne Journal. "Possesses a degree of interest which can scarcely be overstated."—[N. Y. World. "A freeler, Hveller account was never written of any hero, by any author."—[Boston Adverticer. "No work of faction could be better fitted to hold the attention and bear the mind along with a sustained enthusant, than this account of the real life of one of our own countrymen."—[Boton Recorder. "From first to last, the work is intensely interesting."—[Philadeiphia Itean. "Perfectly faccinating."—S. Y. Day Book, "The marrative is flowing and charming. "Me confess having read the whole (one volume) in two prolonged sittings."—[Harper, Weekly." The most difficult task was where and how to pert company with it."—[N. Y. Grayon. "Of intense and permanent interest."—[N. Y. Observer "The most interesting political and personal history ever written of any public man in this country."—[Pennylvenian. "His style is fairly eloquent with vividness and fluency. His account of the defense of New-Orieaus from it never and instructive books we have ever read."—[Rassell's Magarine (Charleston, S. C.) "A life indeed, and before which the conventional and common place biographics of modern times sink into stupidity and insignificance."—[N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

WOMEN OF THE SOUTH

DISTINGUISHED IN LITERATURE.

BY MARY FORREST.

This volume contains biographical Sketches, with extracts from the writings of those Women of the South who have become distinguished in Literature, including Medame Levart, Annu Cora Ritchie, Miss Mothoch, Mrs. Warfield, Marion Haland, Miss Evans, Mrs. Welby, Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. Pheips, and many others. Illustrated with Portraits on Steel.

An elegant quarto, in antique or turkey gitt, $9.

Pron The Loudeville Journal.

This volume is a significant courtory in these times of cavil and discensions—an ovation offered to the genius of the doubt by gifted, liberal, and discriminating spirits, that have their unprejudiced sphere in that region of "frost and snow." with which we are too.prone to connect cold and tray recognition of Southern prerogatives.

Let the South recognize the courtery in the only practical way.

diced sphere in that repeats and terdy recognition of Southern prerogatives.

Let the South recognize the courtery in the only practical way, by making this volume a widespread howehold treasure.

From The Boston Poet.

We have been agreeably surprised to find the book carefully candid in its criticisms, by no means excessive in eulogy, and fully up to the standard of excellence which characterizes the very best works of its class.

From The Home Journal.

Such a glorious galaxy of beauty, intellect, and worth, has seldom before been gathered into one volume; and never, at least, in this country, been awarded such an elegant typographical dress. The volume may well be termed "amptions;" and the fair lady, Mary Forrest, who called from the gardens of the South these magnolia flowers, seach biosenns, and crange buds, merits the cordial thanks not only of all Southern dames and lesses, but of all true hnights and ledies throughout the country.

From The Richmond Enquirer.

The Biographics are written by one of the most gracefully brilliant authoresses of the time; she has called from the South a fine array of brilliant talent, and has portrayed to the world the varied characteristics of the graceful coteries.

From The Day Book.

It is really an important contribution to literature, this selection of the world the graceful of the world the world the graceful coteries of the world the in excellent, and placing it in each just a scale land, and place it in each just a scale land, and place it in each just in excellent, and placing it in each just a processor.

LIST OF VIKUS.—The Japanese Embasadors; Tommy; Interior of the U. S. Steamship Niagars; a Salcon in Paris; a Drawing room Scene; a Deciaration of Love; a Young Painter; Bind Man's Euff: Domestic Felicity; a Farm Scene; a Poultry Yard; the Skeleton Banquet.

From The Day Book.

It is really an important contribution to literature, this selection of so much that is excellent, and piscing it in such juxtaposition that the character and consequence of the works of Southern women are piscilly seen.
